

Setting Up Netbeans for JAVA Class CS112

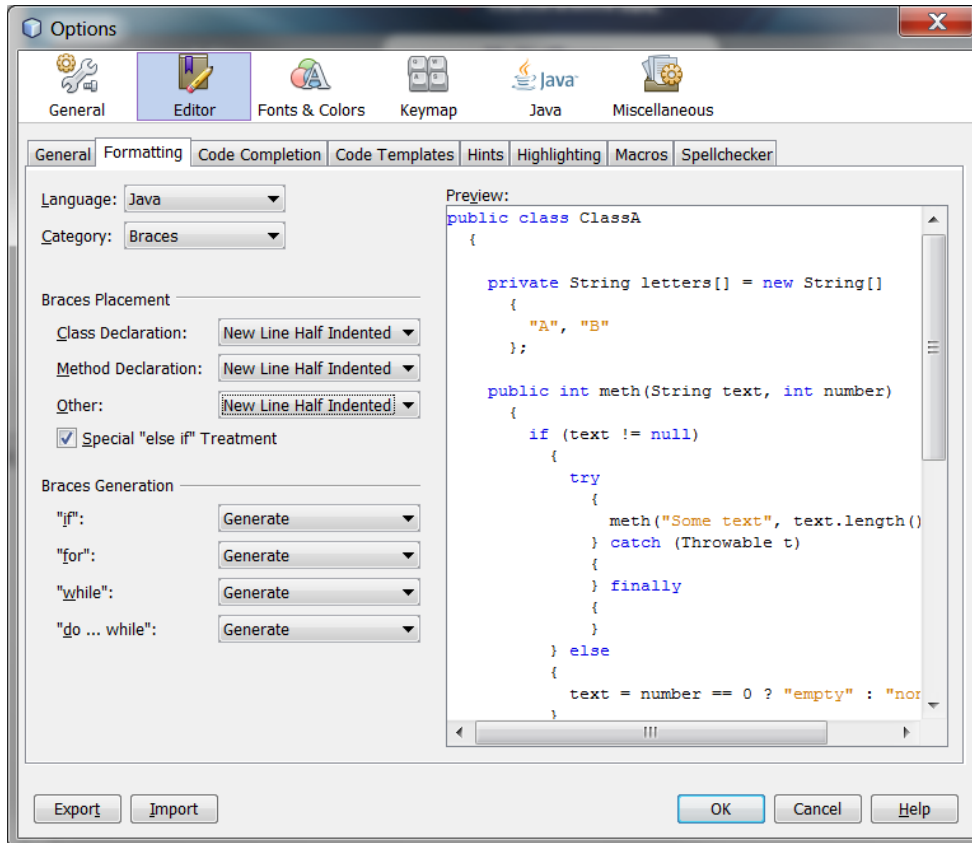

1. Start Netbeans and choose Tools | Options.

2. Choose Fonts & Colors. I changed my font to Verdana 14 so I can see better. You select what works for you.
3. Now select Editor from the top menu. Now click on Formatting. Look at the options such as line wrap. Notice it is off by default. I did not change anything on this page but I wanted you to see where these options are.
4. Now choose Code Completion. Check the box for Display documentation next to completion.

5. Choose Editor from the top menu bar. Under language choose Java. Under Category, choose Braces. Set your options like the image below.

This will make the braces for methods/classes start on a new line. That is how I like it. You can do whatever feels right for you. I think those are the only changes I made.
